ABSTRACT

The purpose of our inquiry is to communicate how conflicts help cultures develop and to teach people how to manage conflicts. Conflicts improve relationships between people. We can have peace and connect people if we solve the conflicts. People become more responsible after solving conflicts because they learn to reflect on what caused them. Therefore, we become more responsible to not repeat and make the same mistake. When we have a conflict it is important to be careful and stop discussing with the person and talk respectfully. Responsibility is very important for cultures to develop in a way that we take responsibility for the challenges that we find. It is important to stop fighting so conflicts are solved with peace.

INTRODUCTION

Our line of research is “Peace and conflict resolution transform society “. This is related to the theme of PYP Development of cultures. Conflicts need to be treated with peace. Culture Development is a form of evolution and changes every day. Peace is defined as a state of social or personal level in which the parts of it are balanced. A conflict is a problem between two or more people that have different opinions about something. Conflicts can be solved in different ways but the most common one is talking, taking distance or coming to an agreement.

MAIN BODY

In our inquiry we investigated about peace, how peace happens when there is good coexistence between humans. Peace is an important matter, that the United Nations assembly decided to establish the International Day of Peace on September 21 st. It was stablished to remember how important it is peace for us the humans. Peace is also a very key element for cultures when they are solving conflicts in a peaceful way. When conflicts are not solved, this causes more problems, wars or even destroy the relations between cultures. There are some ways to generate peace in your community and solve conflicts in a peaceful way. When you solve conflicts in a peaceful way and come to agreements, this helps people and generates peace. In conclusion peace and culture are essential and helps us to have a good coexistence and help society.

A conflict is caused by differences, that happen when two or more people have interests or opinions that cannot be developed at the same time. That is, they contradict each other. They are those people (two or more) who have opposing interests, opinions or needs in an area or on some point of view. Depending on the case. First, conflicts can be classified according to the number of people involved in: Intrapersonal conflicts, group conflicts, religious conflicts, political conflicts and armed conflicts. Conflict happens with two or more people who even though they have tried to come to an agreement, do not yet have agreement, usually because they have different values, perspective and opinions.

Cultural development is when cultures with conflicts solve them and reach an agreement. It is important that cultures have conflicts because they help them to develop their culture.

There are many ways for solving conflicts between cultures. The best way is to do it in the calm way possible. In a conflict the first thing you should do is to breathe deeply and relax yourself. When you are completely calm you need to talk with the person and tell her or him what you don't like that she or he is doing. Then you can come to agreements.

ACTION

Our action was about the development of cultures. We made a video explaining about cultures, conflict and peace. We presented it to Primary school teachers and primary school girls. The conclusion of our action is that cultures have conflicts and they also can come to peace solutions.

CONCLUSION

Conflicts can benefit or harm cultures depending on the situations or the outcome that generated the conflict. Conflicts have different ways to be solved, the most common and easy are talking, distancing oneself or reaching an agreement. There are many types of conflicts, but the most common are when two or more people have a disagreement or different opinions. Cultures often have conflicts and in order to solve them, only two important aspects are needed: peace and responsibility. When cultures have conflicts, many times the opportunity to improve or to solve it appears, that opportunity can improve cultural or personal relationships. In conclusion, conflicts can and help a situation to be better or worse, conflicts must be dealt with, there are more serious or simpler conflicts, when a conflict arises it has to be solved by talking, reaching an agreement or distancing ourselves, a conflict is a disagreement between two or more people, cultures have many conflicts, conflict resolution can improve relationships. If conflicts are not resolved they can grow and worsen.
